DETAILED ACTION

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

ART REJECTION:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-8,10-17, and 19-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rosenfeld et al(6,804,656).

-- In considering claim 1, the claimed subject matter that is met by Rosenfeld et al(Rosenfeld) includes:

1) the receiving the clinical data from the clinical system on an inbound data interface is met by the Command center/remote location(202) receiving patient information from the ICU(204)(see: column 19, lines 34-50);

2) the storing the clinical data in an expert system database is met by the database server/data warehousing functionality(208) which store amassed patient information(See: column 19, lines 2-8);

Art Unit: 2612

3) the processing the clinical data in the expert system is met by the support algorithms which process the stored data and produce treatment information(see: column 19, lines 8-13);

4) the generating an alert based on results of processing the clinical data and sending the alert to the clinical system is met by the physician requesting treatment guidelines for critically ill patients at the user interface(484), and results of the request being to the interface(484) via the order writing assignment manager(496) after processing(see: fig. 14, column 22, lines 15-36).

-- With regards to claim 2, the receiving audit information on an audit interface and updating the audit log in the expert system is met by the database server/warehouse functionality(208) amassing information pertaining to conditions, treatments, outcomes, and other information of a statistical nature which would have constituted audit information and update of an audit log, since the warehouse(208) would have logged all information, actions, and updates(see: column 19, lines 4-19).

-- With regards to claim 3, the receiving a request from the clinical system, displaying an alert from the expert system receiving an update of clinical data at the expert system, and sending the update of the clinical data to the clinical system is met, as discussed in claim 1, by the physician resources(486) which allows physicians at the ICU(204) to input requests via user interface(484), receive results from assignment manager(496), and as well allows physicians to re-enter data to be processed by the diagnostic algorithm for further results to be displayed to the physician(see: column 22, lines 15-36).

Art Unit: 2612

-- Claim 4 recites subject matter that is met as discussed in claim 2 above(see: column 19, lines 4-19).

-- Claim 5 recites subject matter that is met as discussed in claim 3 above.

-- Claim 6 recites subject matter that is met as discussed in claim 2 above.

-- Claim 7 recites subject matter that is met as discussed in claim 1 above.

-- Claim 8 recites subject matter that is met as discussed in claim 3 above.

-- With regards to claims 10-12, the structuring messages according to proprietary message definitions, and the alert according to HL7 protocol is met by the information pertaining to patients being structured according to HL7 protocol(see: column 19, lines 34-45).

-- With regards to claim 13, the receiving clinical data from an interface engine disposed on a clinical module is within a clinical system is met by request data being received from a user interface(484) which allows a physician access to physician resources(486).

-- With regards to claim 14, the computer readable medium having computer executable instructions is met by the Headquarters(200) comprising application server(238), NT file server(240) and Sun SPARC Enterprise(250) which provides storing and serving information such as practice guidelines, algorithms(see: column 19, lines 58 et seq; column 20, lines 1-9).

-- Claims 15-17 recite subject matter that is met as discussed in claims 1-3 above, respectively.

-- Claims 19-21 recite subject matter that is met as discussed in claims 10-12 above.

Art Unit: 2612

-- Claim 22 recites subject matter that is met as discussed in claim 14 above.

-- Claims 23-27, and 31-32 recite subject matter that is met as discussed in claims 1-3 above.

-- Claims 28-30 recite subject matter that is met as discussed in claims 10-12 above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 9 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rosenfeld et al(Rosenfeld).

-- With regards to claims 9 and 18, it would have been obvious that the alerts would have comprised data elements having standard identifiers attached to at least a portion of the elements, since information transmitted between the ICU's and the command center would have included patient specific information which would have required some form of data identification means attached to the data to ensure that the information would have been associated with each specific patient.

REMARKS:

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-32 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
